Rhode Island DLT: Labor Market Information

From the website: www.dlt.ri.gov/lmi/

Labor Market Information describes the labor area in terms of its jobs, workers, wages, industrial structure and economic conditions. The Labor Market Information (LMI) Unit is responsible for the collection, analysis, dissemination and publication of a wide variety of information on the Rhode Island labor market. We strive to make the latest available information universally accessible to job seekers, employers, planners, policy makers, economists, news media, government officials and other customers.

In the Navigation bar: LMI for Jobseekers:

- ▶ Apprentices Program
- ▶ Education v . Unemployment Rate & Wages
- ▶ EmployRI: networkri Online
- ▶ EmployRI for Jobseekers
- ▶ Industry & Occupational Projections
- ▶ Labor Supply & Demand
- ▶ Largest Employers in Rhode Island
- ▶ Licensed Occupations
- ▶ Mapping a Course to Career Success
- ▶ Occupational Outlook Handbook
- ▶ Occupational Wages

In the Navigation bar: LMI for Business:

▶ Links for Labor Market Information tailored for business. LMI can be used in making decisions for marketing, determining the available labor pool, hiring staff, paying wages, determining site locations, or expanding your business. These are just a few examples of using LMI in your business decision making to compete in today's economy. (from the site)

NEIT Library Website >> <https://library.neit.edu>

There is good information under Resources and Materials on the MGT, Business Management pages under Explore Technologies. You will find print, ebooks, print and e-journals as well as reputable websites for more information

Use search engines to locate information: [Google is one example]

www.google.com

Use GOOGLE to locate local companies.

- ▶ Get better results by searching for the kind of business and the state.
- ▶ Remember to use double quotation marks [""] when searching for a business that has more than one word as a name.
- ▶ For example, "interior design" and "rhode island" would produce more focused results than interior design rhode island.
